Star to Circulate 3 Petitions on Saturday

Three state wide petitions will be circulated by Hope Star in this city Saturday beginning at 9 a. m. and continuing until the city has been canvassed.

They are:

1. Permissive Voting Machine Amendment, which doesn't change present voting procedure but legalizes the use of voting machines should the legislature approve them. The Star endorses this proposal.

2. Fifty Per Cent Minimum Public School Fund Act, an initiative act which proposes to protect the public schools' share of public money against diversion by the legislature. The Star endorses this proposal — it is long over-due.

3. Teacher Retirement Fund Amendment, a proposed constitutional amendment which The Star hasn't thoroughly examined — but it is backed by the state's teachers; therefore it is worthy of being submitted to the voters at the polls. The Star suggests you sign the petition now, and the issue can be debated fully before you make up your mind how to vote on it.

The three petitions will be circulated as a unit, and canvassers will be paid. Those who wish to participate in the circulation should register at The Star by 9 a. m. Saturday, May 19.

Caution to the public:

Do not sign the petitions unless you have a current poll tax. Circulators must ask every would-be signer if he or she does have a current poll tax.

Do not sign for your husband or wife. Each person must sign individually.

Caution to circulators:

Do not turn over incomplete petition to another circulator to finish. Each circulator makes oath he saw these people sign personally. Turn in your petition at Star office for notarization and payment.

Full Probe of Estes Case Has Been Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Investigations sub-committee voted unanimously today to stage a full-scale public airing of the scandals flowing from the Billie Sol Estes case.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., pledged a full, thorough and complete investigation of alleged influence deals by the Texas financier.

He said there was no sign of partisan discord among the sub-committee's members over plans to follow the trail of evidence, which could lead to the doorsteps of people high in government during both the Kennedy and Dwight D. Eisenhower administrations.

McClellan said the public hearings will start just as soon as his expanded investigating staff can wade through a mountain of documentary material, but that it is impossible now to set the starting date.

He said the subcommittee, at a 90-minute meeting behind closed doors, voted unanimously to authorize the public hearings to start at such time as the staff is properly prepared.

The steadily expanding staff has been on the job for a month in a preliminary investigation which, he said, has now dug up evidence from which it became apparent that the facts as they had developed and were developing warranted a full, thorough and complete investigation.

McClellan said Estes, whose complex financial manipulations in government farm programs and other fields built a fortune, will be a witness but that it is questionable how much information Estes will give.

Estes is awaiting trial on federal and state fraud charges growing out of the collapse of his financial empire.

McClellan said he has the impression that Estes' lawyer is advising him to cooperate in some phases of the inquiry, but that under the lawyer's instructions in most areas he would not be likely to cooperate without doing violence to his defense in the criminal cases pending.

Both McClellan and Sen. Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, the subcommittee's senior Republican member, have declared they hope partisanship will not be a problem.

McClellan and Mundt also teamed up in requesting the usual authority for the chairman to order bawky or questionable witnesses to be quizzed in closed door session in advance of public hearings. They explained this is a precaution not used very often, but valuable in cases of witnesses who, as Mundt put it, seem prone to "spread a lot of names in the record without any evidence."

Both senators have said they want the hearings to be objective, with no punches pulled.

Since April 17 the subcommittee has had an expanded staff, now totaling 30, exploring the allegations of influence dealing which flowed from the indictment of Estes, 37, in Texas on fraud charges.

The Peccos man built a fortune of $50 million out of dealings in the government's farm program and an attempt to corner the ammonia fertilizer market in West Texas. His sprawling, intricate financial manipulations reportedly extended from coast to coast before they collapsed and he declared himself bankrupt.

Mundt said Estes surely would be called to testify in public hearings and might be questioned first in closed door session. He has been subpoenaed.

Plane Is Down in Kenya, 17 Are Killed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. transport plane crashed today in Kenya on a mission connected with Project Mercury space flights, and the Air Force said first reports indicated all 17 persons aboard were killed.

The wreckage of the C130 was found on a mountain near Nairobi, to which the aircraft was en route.

It apparently burned on impact, the Air Force said.

Two helicopters from Nairobi had reached the scene.

The Air Force said that normally a C130 carries a crew of four. This would indicate the others were passengers.

No names were available immediately and the Air Force knew only that the flight was in connection with the forthcoming manned satellite flight.

In such operations American crews customarily are stationed around the world at tracking stations.

Astronaut comrades of the man actually in flight have been assigned to such detachments.

None of the seven Mercury astronaut could have been aboard, however. In addition to Carpenter, Walter M. Schirra Jr., John H. Glenn Jr., and Virgil I. Grissom are at Cape Canaveral where they have been assigned duties to perform during the orbital flight.

Reverse Ride Offered by Professor

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A university professor Wednesday assured "reverse freedom riders" who left Little Rock on rides sponsored by the Capital Citizens Council a ticket home.

Dr. Richard V. Ebert, professor and chairman of the department of medicine at the University of Arkansas Medical Center here, made the offer to pay the return bus fare in a letter to the Arkansas Gazette.

Ebert said he wrote the letter as a private citizen who only wanted to indicate that somebody is interested.

He said he thought it was "time that a voice of protest be raised against the traffic in human misery being conducted by Amis Guthridge and the Citizens Council."

Guthridge, president of the Capital Citizens Council which has sponsored trips of three riders from here, said Wednesday night he had no comment of the offer.

Ebert said no great harm seems to have been done by the three Negroes who have accepted the one-way tickets, but that the offer "give the city a bad name."

First of the riders to leave Little Rock was Wayman Berry, 62, who went to California.

Two unemployed cooks, David Harris, 43, and Theophilus Pruitt, 45, accepted rides to Hyannis Port, Mass., summer home of President Kennedy.

Harris has accepted a job. Pruitt was to have arrived in Boston on his way to Hyannis Port Wednesday night.

No charges had been filed Wednesday, Spencer said.

J. T. Moncrief of Little Rock was awarded the contract.

Mental Case Goes Berserk, Five Killed

EAST MEADOW, N.Y. (AP)—A former mental patient shot his aunt and uncle to death today, wounded their two small daughters and killed himself.

The slayer, Marvin Rosen, 29, set the family's $25,000 split-level home afire with bottles of gasoline.

Two explosions followed. A side of the house was blown out. Slain by rifle shots were Albert Mittleman 42, a lawyer; and his wife, Blanche, 39.

Their children—Lorraine, 14, and Michele, 13, wounded and dazed—were found stumbling in the yard as flames spread through the house.

The children were taken to Meadowbrook Hospital. There was no immediate report on how seriously they were wounded.

Neighbors rushed from their homes as they heard the explosions about 5 a. m. in the Mittleman home, where Rosen also had been living.

Police said they could not immediately determine Rosen's motive.

They said they smelled gasoline around the blazing house, and found bottles of gasoline in Rosen's car.

The bodies of Mittleman and his wife were found in the fire ruins. Dr. Francis Moore, Nassau County assistant medical examiner, said Rosen had been under mental treatment at least twice in the past three years at Pilgrim State Hospital at Brentwood N.Y., east of here on Long Island.

Rosen's ailment was diagnosed as acute schizophrenia.

Of the group that left Wednesday, 14 were on a bus that is due in New York at 9 a. m. Friday. The other three missed the bus and left later in the day. All but one were headed for New York.

The exception, Raymond Baptiste, 20, a porter, was bound for Philadelphia to look for a job. He said he had been out of work for months.

U. S. Marines With Bazookas Go to Border

By HENRY HARTZENBUSCH

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—U.S. Marines, carrying a bristling array of bazookas and other arms, moved up to Thailand's border with Communist-weakened Laos today.

One of their officers declared they will stay "as long as we are needed."

A task force of 1,800 Leathernecks in brown-green-blue jungle uniforms came ashore from U.S. 7th Fleet warships at Bangkok with rifles, grenade launchers, machine guns and bazookas and were greeted by the cheering Thai crowds.

Thailand's government had invited American forces to help defend the border which was threatened by a Communist offensive in Laos last week.

The first Marines were flown immediately in huge Hercules transports to a point about 40 miles southeast of the Laos capital of Vientiane—a flat area that is hot and dusty in summer and wet and muddy in winter.

The United States' call on her Allies in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization for a united stand in Thailand brought a quick response. Britain, Australia and New Zealand were reported ready to send at least token forces.

American forces were expected to be strung out in a 500-mile arc along the Mekong River border from the Vientiane area to the southern extremity of Laos.

The nearest tip of the arc is more than 200 miles southeast of Houei Sai, where the Communist offensive in northwest Laos threatened Thailand's frontier.

The Americans' position was designed to carry no threat of immediate contact with pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces, but would make it possible to back up the royal government at Vientiane.

Negotiations In Laos Will Cost U. S.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is considering resuming monthly $3-million payments to Laos if the Boun Oum government acts promptly to promote negotiation for a new coalition regime pledged to cold war neutrality.

This may mean a shakeup in the government at Vientiane, centered on the present strong man, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan. Kennedy administration officials from the President down are reported to have lost confidence in Phoumi.

Associates say that President Kennedy holds the general, who controls several government ministries, responsible for the military crisis in Laos during the past two weeks. He further feels that Phoumi blocked successful negotiations in the past for a government of national union embracing pro-Western and pro-Communist leaders under a neutralist prime minister.

Until last February the United States had paid Laos about $3 million a month for several years, the funds being designed for payment of salaries for troops and police. Phoumi controls the security forces as minister of defense and minister of the interior. He also holds the post of deputy prime minister under Prince Boun Oum.

The payments were stopped in February as a means of putting pressure on Phoumi to drop certain conditions which he had imposed for an agreement to the proposed coalition regime.

In the last few days Phoumi has told U.S. representatives, according to reports to Washington, that he was prepared to see the defense and interior posts go to a neutralist. The feeling of officials here, however, is that he still wants in effect to exercise a veto right over the choice and that this may impede prospective negotiations.

Two Referees in SWC Fail Lie Tests

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Two referees who failed to pass lie detector tests in March definitely have been subpoenaed to appear at a Texas House Investigating Committee hearing today at Waco, the Dallas Morning News said Wednesday night.

The News said that the referees were among more than a dozen witnesses subpoenaed to testify at the House committee's executive (closed) hearing.

The remainder of the witnesses subpoenaed include bookmakers and bettors, most of them from the Waco and Dallas-Fort Worth areas, but some from West Texas, and Department of Public Safety investigators.

All five members of the House committee, plus David Willis, Dallas attorney and chief counsel for the committee, will be present at the hearing.

Willis told the News he expected Thursday's closed hearing would last "from six to eight hours."

He refused to speculate on what the committee expected to uncover from the testimony or whether evidence would warrant calling a public hearing on the three-month-old investigation into charges referees had taken bribes to control the point spreads of Southwest Conference basketball games.

Willis confirmed the hearing would deal with the general wide spread problem of bookmaking, especially on college athletics, in Texas.

Gets 90 Years

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Harold A. Martin, 24, of Texarkana, was sentenced here Tuesday to 90 years in the Texas state penitentiary on a murder charge. Martin pleaded guilty to the slaying on April 2 of Robert Davis, 35, of Aurora, Ill.

Thailand and Laos.

Led by Lt. Col. Fred A. Steele of Ventura, Calif., the Marine task force will bolster a 1,300-man American Army combat group already in Thailand since the SEATO maneuvers here two weeks ago. That group was to be strengthened by another 700 men from Hawaii and Okinawa and U.S. Army, Marine and Air Forces in Thailand will total about 5,000 men.

Lt. Gen. James L. Richardson, jungle warfare expert and deputy chief of U.S. Army forces in the Pacific, arrived in Saigon, South Viet Nam, on his way to Bangkok to take command of the American forces in Thailand. In Saigon he conferred with Gen. Paul D. Harkins, who heads U.S. forces in both Viet Nam and Thailand.

The American Marines and infantrymen are expected to be strung out along a 500-mile area running from Udorn, a town just below the Laotian capital of Vientiane, and east and south to Ubon, across from the southern part of Laos near Cambodia. Both Udorn and Ubon have airports and are on rail lines to Bangkok.

The American invasion by invitation of this ancient land of Buddhist temples, smiling people and rich rice fields went off smoothly.

The swift action by President Kennedy in sending troops to stand by worried Thailand drew the approval of other nations in the anti-Communist Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Governor Set to Call in Legislature

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today he is ready to call a special legislative session if the state Supreme Court invalidates the Revenue Stabilization Law.

The high court has under consideration a suit attacking the stabilization law, backbone of the state's fiscal procedure, and four other 1961 acts — the accounting procedures law and appropriations for the Highway Department, Education Department and the governor's emergency fund.

A decision is expected before the court recesses for the summer June 4. It might come next Monday.

Faubus said the session would be called as soon as he and state fiscal authorities could get ready for it.

Faubus said the state might be able to get by without a special session for a while as long as the court does not interfere with the

Marler-Russell Vows Read

The wedding of Miss Allie Marlar to Phillip R. Russell was solemnized Wednesday, May 9 at 9 p.m. in Prescott at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Overstreet. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Bill Marlar of Hope and the late Mr. Marlar. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Francis Caldwell of Columbus.

Baskets of white stocks and gladiolus decorated the place of ceremony. The Rev. Horace Fyitt, pastor of the Bowden Baptist Church, Arkadelphia, heard the double-ring vows.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Chuck Overstreet. She was attired in white nylon street-length dress, fashioned with a tucked bodice, short sleeves and a boat neckline. An antique opal ring, which is family heirloom, was the "something old" she wore. Her accessories were white, and she carried a yellow-throated white orchid. Mrs. Charles Overstreet, sister of the bride, was her matron of honor. She wore a rose linen sheath trimmed with satin of the same hue. The honor attendant had matching accessories and carried pink feathered carnations.

Steve Marlar, brother of the bride, served the groom as best man.

For the wedding, Mrs. Marlar wore pink crepe with bone-colored accessories. Blue nylon lace with white accessories was the choice of the groom's mother, Mrs. Caldwell. Each had a white carnation corsage.

The immediate families of the wedding couple and a few close friends attended the wedding and small reception which followed. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations.

The serving table, overlaid with a white lace cloth, was centered with an arrangement of pink carnations and pink candles in crystal holders. Miss Joan Caldwell of Columbus assisted in serving. After a short trip to north Arkansas, the groom has returned to Ft. Benning, Ga., where he is stationed with the Army. The bride plans to reside in Hope until October.

Was He Cad or Gallant?

Secret Launching

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The Air Force launched another secret military satellite Tuesday—possibly another in the Discoverer series.

out of my mind if I don't tell someone, I let a married man sweet talk me into making love. The day after we met on the street and when I smiled, he cut me dead. What I did was for love. What he did was for lust.

I am a widow with children of school age, have a fine job and a real place in our community. Now I feel soiled, disillusioned and vengeful. The few men in my life have treated me with respect.

My husband adored me and I him. When he died I no longer wanted to live and only carried on because of our children. Once they were old enough to be sent to school, I took a job. Gradually as homework and friends filled their leisure hours I had time on my hands; joined a local political group, became active in our church but still there was a void in my life.

This is when that married man appeared on the horizon. We met at a political rally. He was running for office. I liked his ideas and wholeheartedly backed him. We saw one another often during the campaign.

One evening last week, he called me up to discuss some political issues. I was genuinely glad to see him and probably showed it. Before he left I did everything he asked me to (I must have been out of my mind) thinking he cared for me as much as I did for him. I feel soiled, disillusioned and vengeful. I want to hurt him as he has hurt me and could — by working against him when he runs for Congress.

—Washington is his goal. Is a man as callous as he worthy of the office? —Wounded

Dear Wounded: Forget the whole episode. If you hit back you'll only sink deeper in the mire. Though certainly in the wrong yourself, your transgression is understandable, because you were at least sincere. Be thankful that this man did choose to ignore you, rather than prolong an affair which could be devastating for all concerned. Give him the benefit of the doubt. Maybe he was protecting you, as well as himself. His wife could know more than you think.

Dear Helen: Though I am 18, my parents still refuse to let me date the boy I love. They won't say why. I have loved this boy (he's 21) for three years and he me. The only chance we have of seeing one another is at some hurried, secret rendezvous. We hate deception but it's that or nothing. We've even tried "nothing" but can't keep apart. He now says he is not good enough for me and that we'd better break off, then, in the next breath, declares his undying love and implores me to marry him in June. I'm on the Honor Roll Society at school, hold a part time job and help at home. I might as well live in a cloister for all the social life I have. —Victim of Over Strict Parents, Pawtucket, R. I.

Dear Victim: In Rhode Island, your state, a girl is not legally of age till 21. So, without your parents' written consent, you couldn't marry in June. For the good of all concerned, your father and mother should provide you with some sort of social life at home. Take the initiative. Invite the Honor Roll Society to your house for a get-together. If your boy friend belongs, so much the better. It would help if his family made friendly overtures to your family.

Dear Helen: A had case of measles left our little girl with convulsions; she scratches, pinches and hits her baby sister over the head. We've taken her to many doctors. They think that, for the good of the family, she should be placed in a psychiatric ward. She's just like a doll, with naturally curly brown hair and an angel face. When not acting up, she's a lovable little thing and would rather be with her family, especially me—her mother. Would the hospital nurse take good care of her? The very thought of her being neglected, or unloved, worries me sick. What should I do? —Frightened Mother

Dear Frightened: Reputable hospitals accept patients with the idea of healing them. Seek the best psychiatric hospital in your community (here your doctor should advise you) and commit your little girl in the hope that she will recover. In fairness to all the family, as well as her, act now!

Urges Scouting for Army Worms

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Craighead County Agent Herbert Russell has urged Jonesboro farmers to scout their fields for Army worms.

Russell said Army worms are infesting fields in Craighead County, and the number has reached damaging proportions in the St. Francis River delta. He said the worms have been found in barley, wheat and rice fields.

Russell said when counts have reached four to six worms per square foot, spraying is recommended. He said it is important not to spray too soon, but "applications of poisons should be made before heavy leaf damage or head clipping occurs."

3 Candidates to Talk Near University

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Three candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor speak in a rally at Woodlawn Junior High School tonight, one mile from the University of Arkansas campus.

Sid McMath, Marvin Melton and Vernon Whitten will present their views on the race and possibly on other subjects.

The rally was scheduled while the political ban on the university campus was a political subject itself. McMath and Whitten, both of whom have sons in the university, criticized the board of trustees for limiting political activity.

Dr. David Mullins, president of the university, set up a list of rules on campus political activity this week saying candidates for state and national office could appear if they were cleared through the governor's office, invited by a campus organization, if all candidates for the office were invited, and other qualifications.

Melton campaigned in Ozark, Clarksville and Fort Smith Wednesday. McMath was in Little Rock and Whitten returned to Little Rock after campaigning in southwest Arkansas. Rep. Dale Alford was expected to return to Little Rock from Washington tonight.

Kenneth Coffelt spoke in El Dorado Wednesday and will spend the rest of the week in south Arkansas.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus speaks at the Ozark High School graduation ceremonies Friday and will participate in an Armed Forces Day observance in Russellville Saturday.

Attorneys Angry in Salan Trial

PARIS (AP)—Defense and prosecution attorneys shouted angrily across the courtroom today in the Raoul Salan treason trial as the defense tried to prove special French police were responsible for some of the violence in Algiers.

Prosecutor Andre Galvada cited "It's almost scandalous! You're making politics!"

Bernard le Coelle, a Salan attorney, fired back: "You do not want justice!"

Lawyer Is Arrested in Cage Fix

NEW YORK (AP)—Jacob L. (Jack) Molinas, attorney and former basketball star, was arrested today on an indictment charging operations to corrupt collegiate basketball.

Molinas is a former Columbia University player, and later a professional who was barred from that field by the National Basketball Association.

He was placed under arrest at the office of Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan on five counts, three charging bribery in the alleged payments of $1,000 to basketball player Billy Reed.

Reed played with the Bowling Green (Ohio) State University basketball team.

Two other counts charge Molinas, 30, with conspiracy and attempted subornation of perjury. The conspiracy allegedly involved 22 players at 11 colleges, in an attempt to fix 23 basketball games.

Molinas formerly played with the Fort Wayne Pistons and later with the Hazleton team of the Eastern Professional League, after his collegiate athletic career at Columbia.

Hogan said Molinas allegedly paid Reed, whose full name is William Dennis Reed, to dump three games—two in December 1959 and one in December 1960. Reed has not been charged with any crime, Hogan said.

The indictment alleges that Molinas engaged in a conspiracy with players and gamblers, named as coconspirators, but not defendants, from Nov. 20, 1957, to March 17, 1961, to fix college games.

In the alleged conspiracy, 14 players were named in the indictment for the first time as having taken bribes. Six colleges not previously named were cited.

Names of the other eight players among the 22 allegedly receiving bribery payments had been listed in previous indictments, Hogan said, adding that the new charges linked the bribery to Molinas.

Eighteen games in which rigging was attempted also are linked to Molinas' activity, Hogan said.

County to Form Development Group

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP)—About 60 citizens of Greene County met here last night to put into motion to formally organize a Greene County Development Association.

The group discussed age scales, education and standards of living, and decided there is a need for a development action.

Kenneth S. Bates, associate director of the Agriculture Extension Service, and Harold Hicks, Greene County Agent, ended the meeting.

Mrs. Doris Vick, district home agent, and Mrs. Mary Tanis, home demonstration agent, also met with the group.

The group decided to meet again early in July for final organization. Bill Misenheimer of Paragould was appointed temporary chairman of the group.

Rice for Cubans

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—The government has agreed to ship 6,500 tons of rice to Cuba, Bjorn Koch, director of industry and commerce, announced Tuesday. Cuba will pay for part of the shipment in sugar, Koch said.

Mail Swamps Revenue Dept.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Revenue Department was swamped with mail today after the state income tax paying deadline midnight Tuesday.

Roby Bearden, director of the income tax division, said his staff would not catch up on the mail until the end of June.

"Taxpayers may pay half their state income tax May 15 and the other half November 15, but Bearden said most pay the whole amount the first time.

The number who split their payment is getting bigger each year, he said. Nineteen per cent did it that way last year, and Bearden said the figure may be bigger this year.

State Now in Drowning Period

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Two weeks of warm weather have brought Arkansas into the drowning danger period.

Most swimming pools won't open until the end of this month, but sunny days and 90-degree temperatures have sent many adults and children looking for "the old swimming hole."

If statistics held, 105 of these persons will drown this year. That's how many died in 1961.

Harold Johnson, director of the Red Cross water safety program, estimated half the deaths could have been prevented if swimmers observed a few elemental safety rules.

"We find that the average person who drowns is a swimmer who either has misjudged his ability or swam too far," Johnson said. "And half of those who drown do so within 15 feet of safety."

The cardinal rules of safety, Johnson said, are:

1. Never swim alone.
2. Obey posted safety rules.
3. Don't dive in strange places.
4. Don't depend on air support devices.
5. Learn to swim correctly and know your power.

The fifth rule, Johnson said, concerns the fact that most swimmers fail to learn simple self-rescue skills which might save them if they get into trouble.

The first rule is most important, he said, because the lone swimmer cannot possibly help himself if he gets a cramp.

"We don't know what causes cramps, but we do know that the swimmer is helpless if he gets one," Johnson said.

According to latest census figures, the average U. S. widower is aged 72 years or about 4 1/2 years older than the average widow.

Musial Ties Record But Cardinals Lose

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Stan Musial got the big one. But Harvey Korman got THE big one.

And that's the story of another victory for the sizzling San Francisco Giants, who continued their headlong rush over all opposition Wednesday by whipping the St. Louis Cardinals 7-2 for their 17th victory in the last 20 games.

While the Cards were dropping into fourth place with their ninth defeat in 12 games, Musial, 41, snapped an 0-for-15 slump with a single in the sixth inning for the elusive hit that tied him with Honus Wagner for the most hits in National League history—2,430.

The left-handed swinger had previously set two league career records this season—runs scored and games played—and now holds or shares 40 NL records and 13 major league marks.

Kuenn's key hit won it for the Giants. The former American League batting king upped his average to a league-leading .30 with the single that drove in Ed Bailey with the tie-breaking run in the seventh.

Orlando Cepeda then hit a three-run homer, his 10th, as the Giants erupted for five runs to wrap it up. The triumph kept San Francisco's lead at four games over the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers, who won their seventh in eight games, 5-2 over Houston.

Cincinnati's defending champion Reds look over third place, 6½ games back, by nipping Philadelphia 6-5. Al McBean and Dioneides Oliva combined for a five-hit performance in Pittsburgh's 6-0 shutout of Milwaukee and the New York Mets beat Chicago's Cubs 6-5 in 11 innings.

In the American League, first-place Cleveland outlasted Kansas City 10-9, Minnesota belted Detroit 8-4, the New York Yankees edged Boston 9-8, Los Angeles Angels defeated Baltimore 3-1 and Washington topped the Chicago White Sox 3-1.

The Cards got single runs off Juan Mariel (7-2) in the second and sixth, but he slammed the door thereafter. The Giants tied it in the sixth when Cepeda singled and Felipe Alou homered, then came up with five in the seventh. Lindy McDaniel (1-3) was the loser.

The Dodgers stole five bases and converted four walks into runs to beat the Colts. Maury Wills scored one of two runs in the first on a wild pitch, then came across with the run that proved to be the winner in the third when he singled, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and scored on Wally Moon's single. Joe Moeller (2-3) won it with ninth inning relief help from Ed Roebuck. Dick Farrell (3-3) lost it.

Vada Pinson's double after a walk and Eddie Kasko's single knocked in the clincher for the streaking Reds, and made it five losses in a row for the Phils. Reliever Jim Brosnan (1-1) got the victory. Frank Sullivan (0-2) was the loser.

The Pirates put it away with five runs in the fourth including a homer by Smokey Burgess. The loser was Bob Wendley (2-3).

Felix Mantilla's bases-loaded single in the 11th after a pair of walks and a single by winner Jay Hook (3-2) gave the Mets their second straight extra-inning triumph over the last-place Cubs. The New Yorkers had tied it in the eighth on Gil Hodges' inside-the-park homer. Glen Hobbie gave up Mantilla's hit, but the loss went to Don Elston (2-1).

Indians, N. Y. Protect Leads in American

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

In the hellier-skelter scramble of the American League race it is not so surprising that the hottest pitcher of the moment is a rookie with the club stuck in last place—Dave Stenhouse of the Washington Senators.

The right-hander, 28, who waited eight seasons before his first big league start came along 11 days ago, scored impressively again Wednesday night with a four-hitter that cooled off the Chicago White Sox 3-1.

Washington has won but seven games and the unbuttoned Stenhouse has accounted for three of them in his starting assignments. The New Englander was touched for an unearned run by the White Sox in the first inning but checked them the rest of the way.

Cleveland protected its league lead by overcoming Kansas City 10-9 in John Romano's two-run homer with two out in the bottom of the ninth. New York and Minnesota stayed a half game behind with victories, the Yankees rallying for a 9-8 decision over Boston and the Twins clubbing Detroit 8-4. Los Angeles stopped Baltimore 3-1 behind the neat pitching of Ken McBride, Jack Spring and Ryne Duren.

San Francisco rolled on in the National League, belting St. Louis 7-2; Los Angeles ran away from Houston 5-2; Cincinnati shaded Philadelphia 6-5; Pittsburgh routed Milwaukee 6-0; and New York outscored Chicago in 11 innings, 6-5.

Stenhouse, a graduate engineer from the University of Rhode Island, was a minor leaguer for seven seasons as a farmhand for the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds before the Reds dealt him to Washington this past winter.

The White Sox scored first last night on Jim King's three-base error of Luis Aparicio's deep fly and a sacrifice fly. But the Senators pulled even in their half of the first and pinched the loss on Early Wynn.

Romano connected for his homer against Kansas City reliever Diego Segui on a 3-2 pitch, with Don Dillard on second and two out in Cleveland's ninth. Woodie Held and Willie Kirkland also had two-run homers for the Indians, while Chuck Essegian hit one with none on.

Mike Fornieles had two strikes on Mickey Mantle with two out in the Yankee ninth at Boston but the Bombers, trailing 7-6, stayed off their fourth straight loss. Mantle finally walked, Yogi Berra singled, then Elston Howard and Bill Skowron put the Yanks ahead with singles off Dick Radatz. Clete Boyer followed with a double against the Boston rookie, making it 9-7.

The Red Sox came back in their half of the inning with one run before Marshall Bridges stopped the threat.

The Twins, winning their fourth in a row and ninth in 12 games, peppered Detroit pitching for 15 hits.

McBride stifled the Orioles on three scratch hits but needed relief after putting two on with none out in the ninth. Spring was tagged for John Powell's two-out single, chasing in the Baltimore run, then Duren struck out pinch hitter Gus Triandos.

Leon Wagner powered in the first two Angels' runs with a double in the first and his 10th homer in the sixth, and Lee Thomas routed Chuck Estrada with another homer in the sixth.

Twins Happy Over Series With Yanks

By JERRY GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP)—Just wait till Harmon Killebrew starts hitting. The Minnesota Twins, on a victory binge with little help from their biggest slugger, invade New York Friday night for their first series with the Yankees.

And Sam Mele is a happy manager even though Killebrew is walloping with a .198 batting average. After all, Vic Power, Lennie Green, Earl Batley and Mole's kids — Rich Holling and Bernie Allen — are tearing the cover off the ball.

The Twins, with a four-game winning streak and nine victories in 12 games, are right in the thick of the American League race with the Yankees and Cleveland.

"The big difference is pitchers who'd been beating us regularly, both when we were in Washington and after we became the Twins, are now being beaten by us," said Mele. "That's because of the kids and power."

The Twins tore into Frank Lary and Jim Bunning, ace of the Detroit Tigers' pitching staff, past two days. Lary and Bunning are a couple of hurlers the old Wednesday.

Open golf tournament that opens here today.

The field is one of the toughest in the tourney's seven-year history, the course is termed in better shape than ever and the weather is expected to be agreeable.

Defending champion Doug Sanders eyed the course Wednesday and predicted some of the lowest rounds since the tournament began. Sanders fired a 15-under par 273 to win the event last year.

Five of the Professional Golf Association's leading money winners since January 1 are in the tourney—Sanders, Buddy Nichols, Dave Ragan, Al Geiberger, Art Wall, Buster Cupt and Nichols. Wall holds the course stroke average record—69.79.

Another player expected to make trouble for Sanders is Bruce Crampton, who finished third to Arnold Palmer and Johnny Potts at the Colonial in Fort Worth last week.

Leave Them Wanting Her Back Again

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — She had spent as long a time as she felt she could afford to be with them. She knew if she spent another day she wouldn't belong as deeply as if she left now.

"You know we want you to stay here as long as you want to, mother," said her son-in-law.

"Yes, Mama," said her dutiful daughter. "Mother's Day wouldn't have been Mother's Day unless you had shared it with us."

"Well, it's awfully nice of you to say it," replied the old lady, looking absentmindedly but accurately around.

She reached over and straightened up the nearest cushion. "You have such a nice place here," she remarked, looking around to the disorder of living she yearned to organize.

"Mama, I know it isn't as it ought to be," said her daughter.

"Well," replied her mother tactfully, "I know you have so much to do, I always say that busy hands make busy purposes. Now where did I learn that?"

She hesitated, glanced lovingly around the room, then said:

"I hate to say goodbye for now without saying goodbye to the children."

"They're out of the house," said her son-in-law. "God knows where."

"Mama, you can't leave without saying goodbye to the children," said her daughter. "I'll get them here."

"Jill!" she cried.

"Christopher!" she cried.

"Joseph Emanuel Jr.," she cried. "Come here! Now, I say! Come here and say goodbye to grandma. She's going away."

One by one, reluctant from play, the children responded to their mother's summons.

"I'm ashamed of you, I really am, children," she said. "After all, grandma made such an attempt to be with us. The least you could do is kiss her when she has to go away."

Each of the children in turn pecked grandma's withered cheek which flushed to a worn red apple bloom.

"G'bye, grandma," said the children racing away.

"It's been nice to have you with us, mother," said her son-in-law, awkwardly but truly. "Come again whenever you can."

The old lady strengthened her endurance of departure by pulling on the ceremonial gloves of leaving.

"Oh, Mama, mama," said her daughter, leaning her head against her mother's worn heart.

"Well, I declare," said the old lady. "You'd think a person wasn't going to see each other again!"

And she left them—wanting her back again.

Business Urge to Merger Continues

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The urge to merge continues to change the makeup of the nation's business setup.

In retailing, transportation, publishing, banking, manufacturing, and a dozen other fields the movement spreads as a means of achieving savings, promoting efficiency, and a branching into new and important fields.

Some companies grasp the merger as a ready-made tool for diversification, as when Ford Motor Co. acquired Philco to branch out into electronics and space work.

Government trust-busters now and then claim to detect other motives, as in banking where they clamped down—or tried to—on courtships among giants with smaller competitors.

Nowhere is the ferment more striking than in public transportation, where financially ailing carriers are striving to redraw the nation's railroad and airline map.

Some rail leaders foresee a day not far distant when the 106 major roads will be regrouped into less than a dozen mighty regional systems—unless the government turns thumbs down.

In regulated transportation, where federal agencies have the final say-so, the wave of mergers, long gathering, is getting down to the brass tacks stage.

Hearings opened in Washington last Thursday on proposed union of American Airlines and Eastern Air Lines, second and fourth ranking among long distance domestic carriers.

If they are permitted to join, rival lines—watching in the wings, and sizing each other up as prospective partners—are to crystallize a new sheaf of proposals.

In a few months, the Pennsylvania and New York central rail-

Laxative Cereal Is on Market

It's A Natural — A new, ready-to-eat cereal is now available at grocery stores in this area. It's Uncle Sam Laxative Cereal, the only cereal with a blend of crisp toasted whole wheat flakes and toasted whole flaxseed for gently, natural laxative action. This tasty blend is gentle enough for children, yet effective enough for any adult troubled with irregularity.

Uncle Sam Laxative Cereal has long been a favorite in the Midwest, especially with calorie-counters. An average serving contains only 117 calories. It is not habit forming. You'll find Uncle Sam on your grocery's cereal shelf in a bright red, white and blue foil wrapped package.

Hopes for More for Disabled Veterans

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Phillip N. Brownstein of Washington, chief benefits director for the Veterans' Administration, said Tuesday he hopes Congress increases compensation paid to disabled veterans.

Brownstein, in Arkansas for a Loan Administration Clinic at Hot Springs, said higher benefits are needed to offset increases in the cost of living since the present schedule was adopted in 1957.

The Kennedy administration has recommended a $68 million increase, Brownstein said. The House has passed a bill calling for a $98 million increase, he added. This bill is pending in the Senate.

Brownstein said 21,350 Arkansas veterans draw benefits. The average benefit increase would be 9.3 per cent.

roads, first and third largest, similarly will go to bat on joining into a $5 billion, 20,000-mile Go-liath.

The rail industry, bedeviled lately as no other by shrinking profits, got a long head start on the airlines. Fifteen of the country's 20 biggest income roads are involved now in merger plans.

Generally leading the fight against the mergers are labor unions fearing loss of jobs; Justice Department and congressional anti-monopoly watchdogs and cities or freight shippers apprehensive about dilution of service.

International Union to Terms

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — International Paper Co. announced today agreement has been reached on several points in negotiations for a new union contract covering 12,500 employees of the company's Southern Kraft Division.

The company statement said the talks are proceeding as scheduled. The joint negotiations began May 3. The contract covering the 10 southern mills expires June 1. Details of the agreements reached were not disclosed.

Tension Is a Leading Ailment

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions:

Nervous tension is one of the leading ailments of civilization. But eight out of 10 people would feel less tense if they'd simply get one more hour of sleep a night, walk a mile more a day in the open air—and worry a third as much about the other fellow's problems as they do their own.

All my life I've heard about kids earning their way into the circus by carrying water for the elephants, but I've never met one who did.

Some men pride themselves on the number of keys they carry on their key ring; actually, the fewer things you have to look up the happier you probably are.

The most boring jobs I can think of offhand are driving a bus, or being a professional hockey player, politician or movie star.

The fellow who first conceived the idea of serving cocktail canapés didn't invent stomach trouble—but he gave it a great big push forward.

If you have to tip the headwaiter to get a seat in a good restaurant, either it really isn't a very good restaurant—or you don't belong there.

Have you already made out your Christmas shopping list? If so, your life is probably to well-planned for enjoyment.

Did you ever notice that when you get the hiccups or a lame back, everybody knows a sure cure? But if you get a gum boil nobody ever heard of a remedy.

A man often will spend his last penny during a night out on the town. A woman always comes home with some money left in her

Laos Key to Fertile Asia Rice Fields

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Laos, the cold war's current flash point, offers a conqueror few riches. But to food-short Communists of China and North Viet Nam, the Kansas-sized jungle kingdom is a bridge to the fertile rice fields of Southeast Asia.

Romantically labeled "land of the million elephants and the white parasol," Laos is slightly more than 90,000 square miles of landlocked jungle and mountains from which its 2 million to 3 million inhabitants draw a meager existence.

But for the Chinese and North Vietnamese Communists, control of Laos could open the road to the rice of Burma, Thailand, Cambodia, and South Viet Nam, which share Laos' borders.

Pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels already control Laos' eastern border with South Viet Nam, and North Vietnamese Communists have been pouring across it to wage war on the pro-Western Saigon government. The United States fears the Reds have similar plans along the eastern border.

But for a few Western innovations, not all welcomed, Laos is unchanged from centuries ago. There are no railroads and only 3,500 miles of roads. Most travel is by plane, which few Laotians can afford, or by the Mekong River, which meanders along the western edge of the kingdom.

Industry is negligible. Educational facilities, other than Buddhist schools, are in pathetically short supply. What wealth is accumulated is usually lavished on religious festivals. While the United States was pumping $25 million in economic aid into Laos in 1960, the government spent $500,000 on cremation ceremonies for King Sisavang Vong, who died 18 months before.

Most Laotians are farmers, usually rice growers, who seek from their toil only enough to subsist on with a little extra for bartering. They are gentle and courteous and lead a slow-paced life that on the average does not exceed 40 years. More than 80 per cent are illiterate. They practice a form of Buddhism widely mixed with spirit worship.

Ouachita Valley Seeking Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials of the Ouachita River Valley Association will go before congressional committee Wednesday and Thursday seeking more funds for water projects in the Ouachita Basin.

The group is asking $5,056,000 for fiscal 1963, $765,000 more than President Kennedy has recommended. The higher amount is what the Corps of Engineers has indicated can be economically employed during the year.

Association members are asking an additional $165,000 to help complete engineering and design work on a nine-foot channel on the Ouachita.

They will try to get an additional $600,000 for the De Gray Dam near Arkadelphia. The Kennedy budget contains $950,000 to complete engineering and design and to start construction.

The Ouachita group will appear before the House Subcommittee on Appropriations for Public Works Wednesday and before the Senate Subcommittee for Appropriations for Civil Functions Thursday.

6,000 Laborers for Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An allotment of 6,000 Mexican laborers to chop cotton in east Arkansas was announced Tuesday by the Employment Security Division.

The workers were assigned to the four major cotton producing areas: Blytheville and Jonesboro, 2,400 each; Forrest City, 600 and Helena, 600.

ESD Administrator J. L. Bland predicted a total shortage of 9,640 workers and said more Mexicans would be allotted if needed.

Minimum wage for the workers this year is 60 cents, 10 cents above that of 1961. Growers must have filed with the ESD an order for domestic workers before Mexicans will be assigned them, Bland said.

Bland said domestic workers will get first opportunity at jobs.

There are an estimated 2,000 species of roses.

Union Files Labor Charge Against Arkla

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Teamsters Union Local 878 has filed charges of violating the National Labor Relations Act against Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. in connection with laying off 11 truck drivers.

Jim Youngdahl, teamsters attorney for this case, said the charge was filed with the regional office of the National Labor Relations Board in Memphis.

An Arkla spokesman said the men were laid off temporarily because of "economic conditions in the chlorine and caustic soda market, in which the men were being used."

The spokesman said Arkla had to lay off about 40 people in the last couple of months, "getting ready for the seasonal tag the gas

Uncle Sam Cereal is a delicious ready-to-eat cereal with gentle, harmless, natural laxative action. Its delightful whole grain flavor comes from a blend of toasted whole wheat flakes and toasted whole flaxseed.

President Has Many Direct
Phone Lines

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, by nature a fast man with a telephone call, already has direct lines to the leaders of Great Britain, France and West Germany.
Kennedy can pick up a phone and in seconds deliver orders via a global network linking the White House with key commands and top government officials, civilian and military.
In this age of emergency, he

YASTE BETTER • COOK BETTER • LOOK BETTER

has recommended a system that could put him in immediate touch with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.
The United States proposed the Geneva disarmament conference that rapid and reliable communications be set up among heads of government and the N. secretary general. The proposal was aimed at cutting the risk of war by accident, miscalculation or surprise attack.
The plan wasn't specific, but there's no communications wrinkle the White House signal corps detachment hasn't considered at one time or another.
The "hot line," with outlets in Kennedy's office, living quarters and other undisclosed locations, is the crucial line through which he can issue crisis orders to military commands or take up urgent questions with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and the Joint Chiefs of Staff. In case of attack, a word over this line could send nuclear-armed planes and missiles into action.
Much about the "hot line" is highly secret. It is known, however, that through control facilities at the Pentagon and elsewhere Kennedy can ring the "gold phone" at the Strategic Air Command's underground headquarters in Omaha and other command posts, simultaneously or one at a time.
The box holding the green phone in Kennedy's office has 18 buttons for local and long-distance calls.
The President also can use this phone to call abroad, if he wishes.

Office Is Now
Unofficial
Dept. Store

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—There was a time when a business office was merely a place where people went to earn a living.
Today, however, the average office has become an unofficial department store.
You no longer have to do your shopping during lunch hours or on Saturdays. One of the fringe benefits of modern office life now is that you can shop leisurely on company time without leaving your desk.
Seated comfortably in your swivel chair you can purchase anything from a grand piano to a stuffed polar bear.
This is because every office employee today seems to be a part time salesman. The hired hands spend half their working time buying something from or selling something to each other.
The bait is always the same: "I can get it for you wholesale." "You arrive in the morning and but the private lines to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, President Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer are separate.
Each line is protected by its own security device to keep the conversations secret.

what happens the very first thing? Why, old Hank, the lovable janitor, sweeps up and says:
"I see you got egg on your necktie again. How much did you pay for that tie—three bucks? I can get 'em wholesale two for a dollar, and they come in 20 colors, not counting plaid. Shall I bring you in a dozen tomorrow?"
You try to buckle down to the job, but along comes Bill, the treasurer's assistant, for a friendly chat. After looking around furiously, he pulls out a box containing some unset diamonds.
"I happened to overhear you say you and your wife are celebrating your 10th wedding anniversary next month," he says. "How about surprising her with a sparkler? These are a third of what they'd charge you at a jeweler's."
You tell him that your wife is allergic to diamonds, but that does not stop Bill. He reaches in his other pocket and pulls out two ladies' wrist watches.
"How about one of these then?" he demands, "guaranteed for a full half year."
You start in to see the boss, but Genevieve, his secretary, stops you.
"I'm helping my little niece sell Girl Scout cookies," she says brightly. "My, are they yummy. How many boxes shall I put you down for?"
You back into the boss' den, and he looks up and says:
"Well, what's on your mind? Oh, by the way, do you have an American flag in your home? My

Wants France to Be Leader in Europe

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Algerian mystery is not how the Secret Army Organization is able to kill Moslems in bluffs every day but why French President de Gaulle has not used the French army to smash the assassins.
It raises an unpleasant question about De Gaulle who takes such a strongman role against the Russians that he has refused even to join the United States in discussing a Berlin settlement with them.
How could he hope to cope with the gigantic Russian military power if he lacks the ability, or the will, to crush the comparatively small group of organized murderers in Algeria?
The answer is simple enough: He couldn't stop the Russians for five minutes without American help, although this might not be guessed from his attitude toward American efforts with Russia.
Through months of murder, committed on the public streets, the French army in Algeria has arrested a few leaders of the secret army but has never made any wholesale effort to crush it. It has stood by while the murders piled up. In these months, while the secret assassins slaughtered their people, the Moslems refrained from fighting back. They feared it would eventually involve them with the French army and destroy their hopes of independence.
They finally reached the breaking point Monday after scores of their women had been shot down, and cut loose.
Until last March, in Algeria, Moslem nationalists fought the French more than seven years for their independence.
In 1958 when De Gaulle's predecessors in office headed toward a settlement with the Moslems, the regular army joined the settlers in revolt against the government in Paris.
The thought of losing Algeria, the last big remnant of French colonialism, seemed too overwhelming for the French troops who had seen their empire cut away from Lebanon, Syria, Tunisia, Morocco, and Indochina.
It was after this that De Gaulle took over. In time, last March, he worked out a settlement with the Moslems, which was intended to keep Algerian links with France but let the Algerians choose independence.
After the history of their years of revolt—and the fact that they outnumbered the European settlers 9 to 1—there was no doubt the Moslems would choose independence.
The decision was to be made in a referendum about next September. The secret army, which had already turned Algeria into its own private laagerhouse, redoubled its efforts.
Any head of a competent state might be expected to act against organized murder. De Gaulle's reluctance to do so doesn't speak well for the ability of the French government, under him or someone else, to control its destiny.
It has been said he fears that an attempt to use French troops against their countrymen among the assassins might cause an army revolt on behalf of the settlers who don't want the Moslems to run the country.
But this is one more example in a sorry history of French inadequacies, both at home and in its former colonies. For example: the endless succession of French governments since the war.
Another example: the French disaster in Indochina where it had practically no support among the people and where the French army was crushed by the Communists.
In some smaller and less pretentious nations this record might not have much significance.
But De Gaulle, the difficult ally, is the one who has visions of France as a leader of the West and the strongest power in Western Europe.

One For My Dame

By JACK WELLS

TIME STORY: Rick Jackson, suspected of being involved in the kidnapping of Carlotta, calls on Congressman Dineen, the girl's father.

Chapter 15

He said abruptly, "Will you come in, please?" He turned on his heel and I followed him into the hall. He closed the door behind us. "I'm quite alone here if that worries you."

I said, "All that worries me is that I'm not going to prison for something I didn't do. I'm not going to prison for any reason whatsoever. But that's neither here nor there."

"Let's go in the library." Again he turned his back on me and led the way.

The library was a good room. The big desk had not been put by the windows for decorative purposes. He motioned me toward a comfortable chair and then hung a leg over the corner of his desk.

"Why did you come here, Mr. Jackson?"

"First," I said determinedly, "to tell you I didn't have anything to do with your daughter's disappearance."

"I'm quite aware of that," he said. "The silence grew around us. I tried to figure it. The important thing was suddenly no longer important. I was a boob and a nincompoop. Carlo Mio had just as much as admitted he knew I was being railroaded and why."

He said, "If you only had come along with John Arnaldi this afternoon we might have saved a great deal of trouble."

"I didn't like his manners," I said weakly.

He shook his head. "You've no idea what you've fallen into, have you?"

"Maybe you can tell me."

"That would get you killed," he said. "The important thing is that my daughter left something with you." He leaned forward. "You must know something of the work I'm engaged in on the committee, the importance of that work. How else do you suppose this house would be empty of police, of federal officers, of representatives of the press, except that I made it important that no one be here on this night of all nights, that I could accomplish this because of the necessity, the very critical necessity of keeping my daughter alive?"

I came out of the chair with a bound. "Then you know that Carlo is alive, where she is..."

He held out a hand to restrain me. His dark brown eyes were snapping. "That she is alive, yes. Where she is, no. That's not the way the game is played. What you must understand is that if I'm to save Carlo's life you must have confidence in me."

I leaned forward, that famous voice of his hard and intense. "Regardless of what you two may have cooked up between you in the few hours you were together it's absolutely necessary that you trust me as she trusted you, that you realize that the time for mock heroics, even real heroics, is over, that if my daughter is to live we must play this hand by their rules and regulations. My daughter's life, Jackson, don't you understand?"

I wanted to shout that I hadn't had anything from Carlo but trouble, that she had left me nothing, given me nothing. But for all of my impassioned appeal, there were too many holes in the cloth. First there was all the evidence that had been planted in my apartment: purse, shoes, a fragment of dress, all designed to make me look like a homicidal maniac. Then there was Carlo, herself. With all this ruthless pressure, at which Carlo Mio had hinted so strongly, why hadn't she given them, whoever they were, whatever she was supposed to have given me? And finally there was brokenheaded John A. Arnaldi, admittedly a representative from the Congressman, whom I had caught rifling my apartment.

I didn't shout at him. I just sat there and stared, and saw finally the same thing that I should have seen in his daughter only two nights ago. Carlo Mio, our fearless crime-busting Congressman, was scared to death.

"MaMa," I said, picking up the newspaper's educated guess.

"Nonsense!" The word snapped, crackled and popped. It seemed incredible that such a small man could have such a big voice. He was tired too. He said, "Jackson, I beg you, leave the thinking to me."

"House of cards," I said. "Poor Carlo, poor me."

He hopped off the edge of the desk and came over to stand before me. "What do you mean?"

I stared down at him. I was tired, too. I said, "Until yesterday and the day before I wasn't very important to anyone but me. I don't think that's true for Carlo, but that's neither here nor there, except that now we're both so important because we're lifting somebody's house of cards. Yours, theirs, I don't know whose. You're not going to help me. I've got to go somewhere and think things out. Good night, Mr. Dineen." I turned my back on the honorable Carlo Mio and started out of the library.

Chapter 16

"Jackson!"

I kept walking.

"Do you know what you've got?"

I swung and faced him. "No, Congressman, I don't know what I've got."

He had a fancy white linen handkerchief out and was wiping his face. He said "Boy, I don't know where you and Carlo met or when, or how much there is between you." He paused and tucked the handkerchief into a breast pocket of the gown. "Sometimes, when you're as busy as I am, you don't pay close enough attention to your daughter, to her by the windows, for decorative purposes, to any, that is, except the friends you choose for her. But that doesn't mean I don't love her, boy." He actually got a hand up above the left side of his stomach. "And because I love her I've got to trust you, trust you and tell you what we're up against, who..."

There was a sudden, sharp explosion that shook and rattled the world, and while I watched stupidly the Congressman crumpled slowly at first, and then suddenly when he reached some impossible point of balance and fell flat on his face. I saw his fingers crawl across the carpet like aimless spiders, saw the muscular spasms that moved his small legs like a child's kicking the floor, and then saw him die. I noticed the hole in the screen of the open window beside the desk.

I was still there, waiting for my turn, when Marty came through a second door to the library which must have led outside to a veranda. She held a small automatic in her hand.

"You seem to have an inexhaustible supply of those," I said.

"Jackson, you are the damndest one!" Her bright blue eyes were shining.

The ivory-colored door she had left ajar opened wider and a large young man stepped through. By comparison the .45 caliber gun in his hand didn't appear much larger than hers. Neither did he look like the sort I'd want stomping my grapes.

I said to Marty, "If we're playing charades I think I know the answer. I read a book once about a blonde who kept a pet gorilla. Tina sent her regards, by the way."

"This guy crazy?" the gorilla asked.

"Absolutely," I agreed. "Now, take me to your leader."

"Please, Vito," Marty said, "let me think. We've got trouble. You've got bigger trouble, Jackson."

"The life I save may be my own."

"Jackson!"

We were all quiet then, thinking. It was an awful effort for Vito, and I wasn't doing much better than the Congressman. It was simply that they had the wrong body there on the floor. The odd thing was, I felt fine. The headache was gone and I felt real good. Somebody was snapping his fingers and I discovered it was me.

"Cool, man," I said, "like a pad at Wild Wood Lawn."

Marty stared at me. Vito's forehead looked like a washboard.

"Let's play a name game," I said, "like what's your name and I'll tell you the same. The real Marty's five foot nine, weighs in around one-sixty, and is horsy, crazy over horses; horsy keep your tail up..."

"Jackson, Jackson boy."

"Your name, Marty. It isn't Marty, Marty, Marty. It's not a party and no one came but a big fat smarty, me!" It seemed silly, talking foolishness but I had seen her do it with Tina, and it might strike a chord of sympathy. It wouldn't make any difference what I said in front of the gorilla; he wouldn't understand it anyway, unless it was written on stone with a chisel.

She looked at me, diminutive blonde, enormous eyes as blue and athornless as the sea. "Jackson," she said, "we should have met in another place and another time."

"And besides," I said "we're only strangers."

She made a sign to Vito. Only her hand moved, her hand and her wrist and a few eloquent fingers. It was more than sufficient, because that was when Vito hit me with the gun. That gave me two sides of a head to ache. That gave me another time to die.

This time the dream was most unpleasant. It was spring on the Yalu again, and I was wandering about the compound looking for weeds to boil, little green weeds that would let me go on living without the bone crippling disease that would hit those who had given up caring if they didn't die first of give-up-itis. I aimed the first of give-up-itis. I aimed to have hope. So I hunted for the small green weeds, for the bitter tea of Richard Jackson. And it

Broilers Are Good Buys This Week

Weekly Food Review
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Broiler chickens, mighty fine eating any one of the several ways they can be fixed, are one of the star treats at supermarkets this weekend.

Some Midwestern markets are selling them at close to cost and they are a good buy in stores all around the country.

Production is not expected to match last year's extraordinarily large volume, but they are none the less very abundant.

Turkeys continue their bid for year-around favor as prices stick at the low level of recent weeks.

Among red meats, beef cuts offer a good variety of buys this weekend. One national chain is turned into a good day because I saw my first hoopoe.

Can't Watch TV Is Child Punishment

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television/Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A research firm recently took a poll of 1,400 parents and found that almost 40 per cent punish their children under 13 by forbidding them to watch television.

This fairly new weapon in a parent's armory now is second only to the old-fashioned spanking. Apparently it has been found more effective than scoldings, banishment to rooms or withholding allowances.

As a matter of fact, television has grown rapidly into a tool of many uses quite apart from its value as an entertainment or time-killing medium for adults.

Programs can be used effectively to slip gracefully out of awkward situations. "I'd love to come, Lorna, to see the movies of your trip through Yellowstone, but the Mets are playing the Pirates—and you know Charlie and his baseball!"

It provides entertainment for the children on rainy days; permits the adults to have some uninterrupted conversation while the kids are quiet and happy in another room; and perhaps most important—is more efficient than a sleeping pill if the viewer is in a comfortable prone position.

So television, in spite of all the attacks on it recently, isn't all bad. A lot of us who watch it consistently can also vouch that much of it is entertaining and sometimes even stimulating.

Frank Blair of NBC's "Today" show went into the hospital a few days ago and a false report started that he had suffered a heart attack. His heart is fine, NBC reports, but he is suffering from exhaustion, brought on by a combination of overwork and traveling. He'll be back on the show next week.

British Warn of Danger in Asia

By ARTHUR GAVSHON
LONDON (AP)—Britain warned today that any New advance by proCommunist Pathet Lao forces in Laos would be dangerous to the peace of Southeast Asia.

The statement by the Foreign Office came after Foreign Secretary Lord Home discussed the explosive situation in Laos with Soviet Ambassador Alexander Sol datov.

A spokesman, reading from a prepared statement, voiced approval for the U.S. action in sending Marines to neighboring Thailand as an assurance against new Red adventures.

He told newsmen that the British government viewed the recent breach of the Laotian ceasefire by Pathet Lao forces as a threat to the peace of Southeast Asia.

The spokesman declined to give any detailed information about Lord Home's discussion with Sol datov.

He left the impression that the meeting, arranged at the request of the Soviet ambassador, did not bring any solution nearer.
